Tommy Heffernan

120 West Patent Rd, Bedford Hills, NY 10507   ·   (914) 826-0920   ·   theffernan@college.harvard.edu

Education

Harvard University, Cambridge, MA – 2011 to Present
Computer Science Major, completed coursework in both theoretical CS and systems.
Studied both object oriented and functional programming, as well as principles of design.

Extracurricular activities include playing on the club soccer team, ###

Recent Summer and Work Experience

ESPN – Summer 2013
Front and back end developer on the ESPN mobile site. Primary focus was client side, working in the proprietary language Tea, Javascript, and HTML/CSS.

InsideSoccer.com – Summer 2012
Worked as a web development intern with a focus on interface design. Designed and built elements of the site's UI, though the site has since been rebuilt.

Columbia University, Department of Physics – Summer 2010
Worked as a programmer and network technician on the NuSTAR satellite project. Wrote a suite of scripts for file conversion to and from NASA formats.

Technical Skills

Work Experience: C++, Python, Unix Script, Visual Basic, Javascript, HTML, CSS
Academic Experience: C, OCaml, Java, PHP, Javascript, HTML, CSS
Personal Experience: Ruby/Rails, Node.js, Work with Android SDK

Past Education

Hackley School, Tarrytown, New York – 2003 to 2011
SAT Score of 2400
7 APs with a score of 5, including Computer Science
Independently studied Linear Algebra and Multivariate Calculus

Columbia University Science Honors Program – 2008 to 2011
College level coursework in Neurobio, Computer Science, Quantum Physics, Complex Calculus